William J. Kelly to speak at Illinois Libertarian Convention

Springfield, Illinois - The Illinois Libertarian Party has added TV personality and political commentator William J. Kelly as speaker at its 2015 convention. Kelly currently produces and hosts the television series, "The Sensationalist."

"We are proud to announce TV personality William J. Kelly, a former statewide GOP candidate for Illinois Comptroller, will be speaking at the Illinois Libertarian Convention on July 31. Kelly is considering a possible bid as a libertarian candidate in 2016 for the U.S. senate seat currently held by Sen. Mark Kirk," said Illinois Libertarian Party chairman Lex Green.

"I was born and raised in Illinois and love Illinois with all of my heart. I'm afraid the Illinois Republican Party has lost its soul. I was especially troubled by Sen. Mark Kirk's endorsement of Rahm Emanuel's re-election campaign. For that reason and many others, I think it's time to try something new," Kelly said.

ABOUT WILLIAM J. KELLY

William J. Kelly is the president of RevDigital, an Emmy award-winning TV production house and also publishes the news website, Newszillaonline.com. A former statewide GOP candidate for Illinois comptroller, Kelly caused a sensation when he busted the campaign caps in the 2015 Chicago mayoral race.
