“The direction in which we are headed in Illinois is of grave concern to residents throughout the state, and one of the most immediately effective means to changing that direction is by running as and voting for responsible candidates in local elections. These eight recognize that, to protect and restore freedom and integrity in the world, the best place to start is often your own backyard.”

“We can improve our neighborhoods, cities, counties and local districts. Get involved, stop the endless electing of career politicians, and put into office your neighbors, real people who share your real concerns. With this in mind, we look forward to the coming spring with all the confidence that our candidates will shake up the status quo of local authority in Illinois.”
